

Jenny Edmanson SWDLGA 2009 Ladies Champion

It is often said amongst the ladies who travel to other clubs to represent Port and have success, that the Port flag flies high. SWDLGA each year hold their annual District Grade Championships, and last Monday, the A grade Championships were held at Barwon Heads Golf Club.

8 Port girls played this year out of a field of 60 so representation was high. The day was beautiful and calm for the grueling 27 holes of the round, and scores were varied.

Our flag flew so high at the end of the day, that it almost took off, and so it should have because, following on her outstanding Pennant season, our Post Manager extraordinaire Jenny Edmanson scooped the pool, winning the District Championship and the 27 hole handicap section.

To say it was a popular win is an understatement, her announcement as winner won a resounding cheer, showing how well respected she is among her peers.

The field was choc full of all the guns of the SWD and, firstly as a Port member and an Executive of the SWDLGA, I and all the Port ladies playing were as proud as could be.

Jenny is a very likeable unpretentious lady, who is a fierce competitor and all Portarlington ladies sincerely congratulate her on a sensational result.

With her busy life at the business and her young family, we don't see as much of Jen as we would like, but next time you see her, whether on the course or at the Post Office, give her a pat on the back and a well done Jen, because what she has achieved is the very highest award our District can give.
